So I decided to walk a little, and maybe eat a burger a little. I was on the dog walk when we came across a little restaurant called Bru Burger. It really is that simple. We sat down and I ordered some fries (obviously) and they were so good that I just had to order a burger. It was a classic New England "slider" that comes on a toasted hamburger bun. The meat was beef cooked medium with caramelized onions and a deliciously tangy sauce. These fries were so good, like a really good drive thru you should try. I didn't know where they got their fries from, so I just gave them a healthy portion recommendation. The order was only $2.49. I was amazed. The fries even tasted more fresh than the ones I buy at McDonalds. The manager was very accommodating to us, which is always nice to see. He said that we came in the middle of a meal, so he was happy to serve us. It was simply a delicious burger that was served up with a smile. It was quite possibly the best burger of the trip. I'm talking about the pictures here, so I'm sorry if you're reading this at school or work. Hopefully I can go back again and make some food pics… Like this: Related 1 Response If you find time, maybe you could make me one too? I'll take one. I'd love to try that place out too. A New England slider sounds nice. I like sliders too. Usually you only get one side but you seem to be able to get more of a burger with it. I see some pics with a bun that's the same size as the patty. I like when the bun fits the patty better, so you don't have to stretch too much. Sometimes the patty will stretch to the bun and then you get a double patty. If you can find some of that, that would be awesome!A farmer's education and rights Menu Fear of the Euro Rises This is the link to the webcast of the Conference of Catholic Rural Areas last month. L'intérêt de la Commission européenne à la création de la zone euro coule fort. L'Assemblée générale européenne de Septembre, prévue le 25 septembre, va probablement ouvrir l'enquête sur la zone euro et l'évolution de l'Union, dans une perspective de réforme ou d'élargissement. C'est ce qui ressort de la résolution adoptée, lundi, par les députés européens lors d'une réunion avec le président de la Commission européenne, Jean-Claude Juncker. La résolution, jointe par nos confrères de la Tribune de l'Europe, à laquelle Le Monde a également particulièrement prêté, n'est pas votée. Elle est simplement consultée, c'est-à-dire qu'elle ne doit pas interdire à la Commission de l'adopter dans un futur proche. Elle invite toutefois la Commission à « s'appuyer sur les propositions de l'Assemblée générale et, en particulier, sur l'analyse et les conclusions de la commission temporaire de surveillance qui a analysé d'une manière spécifique le « cadre fonctionnel de la zone euro » ». Elle entend, par ailleurs, « la Commission proposer un renforcement du « cadre fonctionnel » de la zone euro ». Quid des doutes des eurodéputés au sujet de la zone? Comment va la crise du règlement européen sur le plafonnement de la dette? Pourquoi les gouvernements vont-ils de plus en plus loin pour accompagner les Européens dans la crise? Ces questions ouvertes, la Commission est invitée à leur fournir des réponses à la fin du mois de septembre. Des questions encore plus vives Le Parlement europé
