Q: How to build a default project in VS2010 I installed a new laptop and trying to get working with a VS2010 solution that was already set up on my laptop. When I try to build a project, I just get The command line arguments contained errors, help is available. It's also not the first time I try the same thing and need help understanding what could be wrong here. A: It sounds like VS2010 is not running properly. Double-click VS2010.exe to start it, then close it. You should then have an icon in your task bar that looks like this: Go to the START menu, right-click it, and select Run as Administrator. Start the program from that icon. A\]; samples from non-responders are indicated by the dashed line (D) and the dotted line (NR). (TIF)
