Where Does Photoshop Begin? It's not a difficult program to learn, but it has many features and tools, so it takes a few hours to get comfortable with the program. If you are looking for a free or trial version of Photoshop, you have a few options. Trial versions tend to be limited, so you have to decide whether you are willing to install the full version to see how well it works for you. Alternatively, you can look for free Photoshop tutorials from reputable websites or YouTube to learn Photoshop in no time. Regardless of your budget, I recommend always purchasing a copy of Photoshop. While there are other image-manipulation programs available on the market, Photoshop is the market leader and the program with the most loyal users. Learn Photoshop in Minutes Whether you want to learn Photoshop from scratch or to delve deeper into your skills, here are some tutorials you can use to learn Photoshop. 1. Photoshop Basics You can easily get started with Photoshop by starting with this popular Photoshop tutorial. This tutorial covers a basic introduction to Photoshop, from its features to terminology and the basics. Even if you've worked with other programs, like Photoshop is Adobe's trademarked product, it's worth spending a few hours exploring what this program can do. This introductory tutorial also covers how to save and open files from a variety of applications, which will come in handy. 2. Photoshop Fundamentals: Image Manipulation The next three tutorials are more in-depth than the previous tutorial. They explore a range of popular topics in the Photoshop world, but can be read and completed in any order. In this tutorial, you'll learn how to use the different steps in Photoshop, what they mean, and when to use them. You'll get a thorough explanation of layers and tools, as well as a close look at the different types of layers. The next two tutorials walk you through common effects and other post-editing techniques. Learn how to change the size of an image and how to crop a photo to get the best results. You'll learn how to create wireframes and more complex effects using the effects and adjustments tools, and how to create a layer mask to make it easier to modify a photo without changing the original. I also recommend the article "How to Edit and Save in Photoshop" on the Smashing Magazine website, which will walk you through all the steps needed to save and open

[6] The Second Circuit's decision, however, was vacated by the U.S. Supreme Court on July 17, 1989, which overruled the earlier ruling. See In re Joint Eastern and Southern District Asbestos Litigation, 897 F.2d 626 (2d Cir.1990). [7] Appellant provides no reason why it could not have sought the reclassification of its claim at an earlier time. See, e.g., In re Asbestos Litigation, 129 F.Supp.2d at 128-29; Mullane v. Central Hanover Bank & Trust Co., 339 U.S. 306, 314-15, 70 S.Ct. 652, 94 L.Ed. 865 (1950) (noting that notice is constitutionally sufficient when the interest to be protected or the nature of the proceeding to be affected is brought to the creditor's attention). [8] We observe that this is not to imply that appellant actually made this showing. Rather, our point is that appellant bears the burden of proof at trial on this issue. Q: Can I use MVC 4 with Grails? My team wants to use MVC 4, with my preferred libraries, but also wants to use Grails, as it's a better framework than plain Java, and I would rather not build this thing from scratch. We'd like to use the MVC as the structure, however, and not just an additional layer on top of the stack. Would we be able to use both MVC 4 and Grails together, or is that impossible? Thanks, A: There are at least two ways to do this. One way is to create a Grails controller and a MVC controller. Then use a controller to determine which one to call based on some variable in the request. If you do this with Spring MVC, you would probably be able to do it through a filter or a servlet mapping or in a controller without too much difficulty. On the other hand, you could use some web framework that supports MVC 4. I know the Grails guys have one called GSP4, though I don't think it's fully supported. There's also Wicket MVC which I know they are trying to get more active again. If you prefer Swing, you can use Stripes. All of these solutions would be very

PROJECT SUMMARY In the United States, the majority of Veterans with post-traumatic stress disorder (PTSD) and depression do not receive evidence-based treatment. Recovery is possible with psychotherapy; however, the average veteran has had 6 or more years of post-deployment traumatic exposure and his symptoms may only remit to less than 50% following treatment. In addition, the Veteran population is unique in that they are mobile, independent, and often find themselves alone in the community. The recent literature supports the use of telehealth technologies in the treatment of PTSD, with favorable results in other patient populations. However, deployment of existing telehealth platforms to the combat veteran population has not been well supported in research. To address these treatment gaps, the Department of Veterans Affairs and the Oklahoma VA Health Care System have partnered to develop an innovative telehealth platform for veterans to deliver evidence-based psychotherapy for PTSD and depression. The Oklahoma Telehealth Service at Oklahoma VA Medical Center (OTSM) has been in development since 2015. OTSM is a division of the Oklahoma Department of Mental Health and Substance Abuse Services. The core focus of OTSM is to support Veteran in recovery and the development of employment skills through the facilitation of telehealth, which for this proposal includes, but is not limited to, distress-focused psychotherapy and rehabilitation. The proposed effort to develop and implement a psychotherapy-focused telehealth platform for Veterans with PTSD and depression will be implemented in 2 phases. The Phase I (12-month) effort will consist of a telehealth simulation pilot to test technical and clinical feasibility (Aim 1). The Phase II (12-month) effort will be implementation of a fully functional, evidence-based psychotherapy-focused telehealth platform (Aim 2). For Aim 1, emphasis will be placed on establishing that veterans provide reports of change and satisfaction while receiving treatment, in addition to data collection to inform design of Phase II. For Aim 2, emphasis will be placed on addressing system-level issues that may limit the viability of this system to supporting treatment. Additionally, engagement of trainers will be evaluated. Qualitative data from veterans receiving treatment will help to refine training and identify barriers to use. All patients will be tracked using the OTSM platform throughout treatment to evaluate treatment completion. However, completion will not be the outcome of interest for Aims 1 and 2. Changes in the outcomes of interest will be used as measures of treatment completion. The primary outcome of interest will be engagement with the system, defined as daily
