RabadonExpert is a utility for League of Legends. It contains small guides for all the champions. You can read up on all the information you need about any champion, and what champions they are good against and who are good against them. If you're in a match and your opponent is in the queue and they chose their champion before you, you can even read up on what to pick in order to counter them. Not only that, you can also find out what spells are best to get, what items are recommended to buy, what masteries to choose and what runes to pick. There are different guides, depending on the level of your account. Features: * All the information you need for free (APK size: 3.6MB) * The program is very user friendly and doesn't use a lot of resources (no advertising) * The program doesn't update its information, which means you get the most up to date info. * Use it before a game and you won't know what your opponent is going to start with * Use it before a game and you won't know what your opponent is going to start with How to use it Just like you would have a travel guide at hand when you are going to another country, you can keep RabadonExpert running while you are playing League of Legends as your companion. You can use it to see what items you should start with, what others to build during the game and which abilities are more important to max out first. Also, if you are in a ranked match queue and your lane opponent chose their champion before you, the program can be used to find out what to pick in order to counter them. Should I get it? If you are relatively new to the game or have a hard time winning matches, then it would be very useful for you. The application also doesn't use many resources, so you will not even notice it running in the background. However, if you are a seasoned League of Legends player and know all there is about the game, this program won't be of any use. It is considered the best build for tanks in some cases and a very powerful boost for any team. But the most common builds are short ranged and have very weak output. That is why this guide is about Myrir, the Master of the Sea. How is it balanced? Myrir is a pretty popular character in League of Legends because of his combination of some really good stats and his awesome passive. While he might be a bit vulnerable in lane, he is capable of strong dueling, and he can fight in teamfights and even bruise the opponent with his Ultimate. His kit is also balanced and he is very powerful. How do I play it? The master of the sea is a great character because of his range. He can be a bit fragile in lane, but he has the tools to fight in lane and with his Ultimate he can win duels. So this is how the strats work. How do I build it? I usually build a Doran's Blade and two Rod of Ages. You can only get two Rod of Ages from Bloodforge. How do I play it? At level 1, you want to go for a Rylai's Scepter. This item is the cornerstone of Myrir. I use Ezreal as my main in lane so I usually build the Sightstone first so I can take Ezreal to level 1.
