Skoti.Ola.Begona.pdf.Za.Skoti.Ola.Begona.pdf.The Beretta T-26/34 was a light, low-powered machine gun used in World War 2. It was the only United States military firearm chambered in.30-06 Springfield until the M1919 Browning machine gun came around. This little gun was manufactured during the final two years of the war, and nearly 2 million were manufactured. It was used against Japanese forces and could be found in small numbers in the hands of Russian troops. The first reviews of this weapon was positive, and it was quickly adopted for the training of newly produced marksman. It was promoted as the ultimate rifle, even though it was a lot more inaccurate than some of the other standard arms of World War 2. These guns were used as training tools for future generations of riflemen. Submachine guns were also a booming business after WWII. This one was produced for the U.S. Army as part of the designation class of 1938 by the Stevens Arms and Machine Company. They were used by the military until the late 1940s. The rifle used in this video is a remake of my old home defense rifle from the late 1990s. It was a variant of the.22 short, but I swapped the sights for the original style fixed. It has a good reputation and is a great little rifle.Brandenburg State The Brandenburg
